Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 12/12/06 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 28, 30 and 32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Matsuda et al (US 6340999).

Matsuda discloses a reflection-type liquid crystal display device comprising (see at least Figure 9): a light guide plate 3 having a polarizing element (e.g., 4) stuck or adhered (e.g., adhesive layer 10) thereto on the side facing a reflection-type liquid crystal display panel, the polarizing element maintaining a predetermined air gap relative to the reflection-type liquid crystal display panel; a source of light (e.g., 2) arranged on an end surface side of the light guide plate; and a light-diffusing function (e.g., 9) imparted to the surface of the reflection-type liquid crystal display panel on the side adjacent to the air gap and facing the light guide plate.

Art Unit: 2871

Matsuda discloses a film having a light-diffusing function (e.g., 9) being stuck to the surface of the reflection-type liquid crystal display panel on the side facing the light guide plate, wherein the film is an antireflection film (reflection-preventing film) disposed on the side of the interface to the air layer.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 29 and 31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Umemoto as applied to claims 28, 30 and 32 above.

Materials such as TAC (triacetyl cellulose) used for the light diffusing film and the diffusing film commonly comprising a roughened surface are common and known in the art for achieving advantages such as high transparency/light-efficiency. Therefore, it would have been at least obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to employ materials such TAC for the light diffusing film and diffusing film comprising a roughened surface for achieving advantages such as high transparency/light-efficiency.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 28-32 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
